topic:

Makin' Deals with Safety

Someone in sales just made a great deal to move some freight, but the driver will need to go just a little past his legal hours to make it on time. A truck driver waited several hours at a dock to load and as a result, is feeling sleepy behind the wheel. A load isn't secured properly, but it's okay because it's only going a short distance.

Shippers, freight brokers and anyone dealing with transportation should understand how their company's actions directly impact highway safety. And if an accident occurs, how it can severely affect their bottom line.

Captain Gerry Krolikowski, Nebraska State Patrol, Carrier Enforcement Division, will discuss how companies can keep the mantra of safety throughout their business to benefit everyone.

Capt. Krolikowski has been with the Carrier Enforcement Division of the Nebraska State Patrol for more than 20 years. Krolikowski is also very active in the Commercial Vehicle Safety Alliance, the international organization dedicated to promoting commercial motor vehicle safety and security throughout North America.

Reservations not cancelled by noon Friday prior to the event will be billed.
You also have the option to send someone in your place if you're unable to attend.
